Attention: Central Reexamination Unit
Commissioner for Patents
P.O. Box 1450
Alexandria, VA 22313-1450

Sir:

I write concerning the multiple submissions made by patentee in the present case in response to the Office Action of May 2, 2008. Requester is deeply concerned about the manner in which patentee has elected to conduct itself in the present proceeding. This communication is not intended to be nor does it constitute Requester's written substantive response to the Patent Owner's response; this communication instead addresses important issues separate and apart from the substantive response. Upon resolution of the issues raised herein, Requester will submit its substantive response to the Patent Owner's response.

Patent Owner has submitted not one but two separate responses to the Office Action of May 2, 2008, one via the attorney of record, Raymond Y. Chan (also spelled "Chen"), and one by its litigation counsel, Venable LLP. Venable LLP is not of record and not entitled to submit in papers in this proceeding. Patent Owner's course of action is particularly disturbing in light of the unsupportable, false, potentially biasing allegations made by Venable LLP in its papers.

For the following reasons, Requester believes that Patent Owner's actions violate 37 C.F.R. §§ 1.4 and 10.18. As a result of this violation, Requester respectfully requests that the instant proceeding be terminated pursuant to 37 C.F.R. § 10.18(c)(5). Upon termination, the status quo should be maintained, with claim 1 of the instant patent remaining finally rejected.

Alternatively, should the present proceeding not be terminated, Requester respectfully requests that Examiner disregard Venable LLP's submission of July 2, 2008 and expressly expunge same from the record. Should Venable LLP's submission of July 2, 2008 remain in the record, Requester hereby reserves the right to respond thereto.

I. Patent Owner has Violated 37 C.F.R. §§ 1.4 and 10.18, and the Proceeding Should Be Terminated

Requester filed the request for inter partes reexamination on March 6, 2008. The request was granted on May 2, 2008, and Examiner issued the currently pending office action at that time, rejecting the single claim at issue, claim 1.

On July 1, 2008, Requester was served with Patent Owners response to the May 2, 2008 Office Action. This response was filed by Patent Owners attorney of record, Raymond Y. Chan ("Chan's submission"). Then, one day later, Requester was served with a second response by Patent Owner to the Office Action, this time filed by Patent Owner's litigation counsel, Venable LLP ("Venable LLP's submission").

A. Only the Attorney of Record May Respond to Office Actions - Venable LLP's Response is Improper

The Patent Rules are clear: if an attorney of record exists, then the attorney of record, and only the attorney of record, may communicate with the Patent Office on behalf of the Patent

Owner:

All notices, official letters, and other communications for the patent owner or owners in a reexamination proceeding will be directed to the correspondence address. Amendments and other papers filed in a reexamination proceeding on behalf of the patent owner must be signed by the patent owner, or if there is more than one owner by all the owners, or by an attorney or agent of record in the patent file, or by a registered attorney or agent not of record who acts in a representative capacity under the provisions of § 1.34. Double correspondence with the patent owner or owners and the patent owner's attorney or agent, or with more than one attorney or agent, will not be undertaken.

37 C.F.R. § 1.33(c), and see M.P.E.P. § 2622. The power of attorney in effect at issuance of a patent in inter partes reexamination remains in effect until such time that the patent owner revokes it and files a new power of attorney:

If the patent owner desires that a different attorney or agent receive correspondence, then a new power of attorney must be filed. Correspondence will continue to be sent to the attorney or agent of record in the patent file absent a revocation of the same by the patent owner. If the attorney or agent of record specifies a correspondence address to which correspondence is to be directed, such direction should be followed. However, since a change in the correspondence address does not withdraw a power of attorney, a change of the correspondence address by the patent owner does not prevent the correspondence from being directed to the attorney or agent of record in the patent file under 37 CFR 1.33(c).

M.P.E.P. § 2622.

Correspondence from unauthorized parties (e.g., from attorneys other than the attorney of record) will not be considered by the Patent Office:

If an unauthorized paper is filed by any party at any time during the inter partes reexamination proceeding it will not be considered and may be returned.

37 C.F.R. § 1.939(a).

Likewise, the Patent Office will not undertake correspondence with alternate attorneys – patent owner/applicant may only have one law firm representing him, not multiple firms:

Double correspondence with the patent owner or owners and the patent owner's attorney or agent, or with more than one attorney or agent, will not be undertaken.

37 C.F.R. § 1.33(c).

Venable LLP, is not the attorney of record in the pending reexamination proceeding. The present attorney of record in the reexamination proceeding is Raymond Y. Chan (also spelled “Chen”) (see the Bibliographic Data Sheet). Patent Owner filed no revocation of Mr. Chan’s power of attorney nor filed a new power of attorney appointing Venable LLP. Thus, only communications from Mr. Chan are proper, and communications from other parties, including Venable LLP, are improper and cannot be made part of the record.<sup>1</sup>

B. Patent Owner Has Violated 37 C.F.R. §§ 1.4 and 10.18 and the Present Proceeding Should be Terminated

More troubling than Patent Owner’s and Venable LLP’s disregard for the Patent Rules is the fact that they ignored the rules to introduce baseless allegations of wrongdoing by Requester. Patent Owner and Venable LLP have acted in violation of 37 C.F.R. § 10.18(b)(2)(i) and (iii).

1. Patent Owner’s Submission by Venable LLP Violates 37 C.F.R. § 10.18(b)(2)(iii)

First, 37 C.F.R. § 10.18(b)(2)(iii) states, that by submitting a document to the Patent Office, a practitioner such as Venable LLP is certifying that

[t]he allegations and other factual contentions have evidentiary support or, if specifically so identified, are likely to have evidentiary support after a reasonable opportunity for further investigation or discovery.

Despite this express requirement to refrain from filing papers containing baseless allegations, Patent Owner, through its trial counsel Venable LLP, submitted papers containing repeated alleges, both expressly and by direct implication, that Requester and/or its legal counsel have perpetrated fraud. These allegations include, among others, allegations that the Song reference (one of two references forming the basis for the reexamination) and/or the translation thereof submitted by Requester to the Patent Office were “fabricated” and “fraudulent”. These allegations are repeated, for example, on pages 3, 5 and 10 of Venable LLP's submission.

Patent Owner's allegations of fraud contained in Venable LLP's submission are utterly baseless. Tellingly, the July 2 submission is completely devoid of any factual support for the allegations whatsoever. Venable LLP's submission instead, the papers simply repeat ad nauseum, Venable LLP's self serving conclusion that the Song reference and/or translation thereof submitted by Requester is “fabricated” and “fraudulent”. These bald assertions, without so much as a wisp of support, not only step over the line of conduct drawn by 37 C.F.R. § 10.18(b)(2)(iii), they charge head-first past it.

The Venable LLP submission weaves an incredible tale of intrigue, portraying a nefarious plot between Requester and the Chinese manufacturer of Requester's product. See Venable LLP's submission at 4-6. Each and every allegation of wrongdoing underlying the conclusion of fraud, however, is made “upon information and belief” (except, perhaps, for the allegation that the Chinese manufacturer and Requester are in some vague state of “privity”). Venable LLP has made each and every critical factual allegation “upon information and belief” because it has no evidence whatsoever that it's assertions are accurate. This minor detail – a complete lack of factual support for its reckless conclusions – does nothing to stop Venable LLP from making the allegations.

What is more, an exploration of the substance of Venable LLP's assertions of fraud – to the extent they possess any substance – shows them to be virtually nonsensical. Specifically, Venable LLP alleges that the “fabricated” and “fraudulent” submission included disclosure of inter alia a multi function or “seven-using” toy, and these multiple alleged functions are not supported by the patent drawings or translated specification. For example, the fabricated translation of the reference discloses that the toy can be assembled and disassembled in different manners to result in a pull cart, a children's bed, a wooden horse, a tricycle, and a toilet seat. See p. 3 of the Song specification submitted by PlaSmart [Requester]. Yet there are no drawings that in any way support these features.

Venable LLP's submission at 6. Venable LLP's position is apparently that the added disclosure materials (i.e., the disclosure materials added to the Song reference) has nothing to do whatsoever with the present application. Requester agrees entirely with this position.

What Venable LLP fails to explain is this: what motivation would Requester have to add irrelevant disclosure to a reference that otherwise renders the present application invalid? The answer is: none. There is simply nothing to be gained by adding irrelevant disclosure to an otherwise highly relevant reference. What is more, Requester's arguments in support of reexamination, and Examiner's rejection in his May 2, 2008 Office Action, do not cite the irrelevant, apparently erroneous, portions of the Song reference as submitted (e.g, the disclosure of a children's bed and toilet); both Requester and Examiner referred only to those portions of the Song reference that are relevant, none of which Venable LLP alleges are improperly included. Not only are Venable LLP's allegations of fraud supported by a shred of evidence, they make no sense as well.

2. Patent Owner's Submission by Venable LLP Violates 37 C.F.R. § 10.18(b)(2)(i)

37 C.F.R. § 10.18(b)(2)(i) states, that by submitting a document to the Patent Office, a practitioner such as Venable LLP is certifying that

[t]he paper is not being presented for any improper purpose, such as to harass someone or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of prosecution before the Office.

As with the proscriptions of 37 C.F.R. § 10.18(b)(2)(iii), it appears that Patent Owner, through its litigation counsel Venable LLP and its attorney of record in the present case, Mr. Chan, is seeking to do exactly what cited rule prohibits – harass Requester, requiring it to undertake unnecessary work, thereby increasing its cost.

Both Mr. Chan and Venable LLP submitted responses to the Office Action of May 2, 2008. Each response includes extensive (albeit meritless) substantive arguments against the rejection of claim 1.<sup>2</sup> In addition, Mr. Chan's response adds 14 new claims to the application. The two responses total more than 30 pages. Addressing each of these responses is a significant task; responding to both is a formidable undertaking.

Electing not to respond to one or the other of Patent Owner's two submissions is not a viable option for Requester, however, as failing to respond within the time prescribed by the Rules acts as a waiver of the right to respond:

a third party requester may once file written comments within a period of 30 days from the date of service of the patent owner's response. These comments shall be limited to issues raised by the

<sup>2</sup> Each response apparently includes the very same translation of the Song reference. It follows from this that both Mr. Chan and Venable LLP received the reference from the same source, likely from the Patent Owner himself. In any event, it is nearly impossible for Patent Owner to argue that the two submissions were made inadvertently considering both Mr. Chan and Venable LLP used the same translation.

Office action or the patent owner's response. The time for submitting comments by the third party requester may not be extended.

37 C.F.R. § 1.947. Thus, by not responding to both of Patent Owner's submissions – both Mr. Chan's submission and Venable LLP's submission – Requester runs the real risk of waiving it's right to respond.<sup>3</sup> Surely, both Mr. Chan and the attorneys of Venable LLP are aware of the mandates of 37 C.F.R. § 1.947, and so the impact of their violation of 37 C.F.R. § 1.33(c) must have been known to each.

In short, Venable LLP is clearly not authorized to respond under 37 C.F.R. §§ 1.33(c) and 1.939(a), only Mr. Chan is, yet Patent Owner decided to have both Mr. Chan and Venable LLP submit responses, forcing Requester into the untenable, costly position of having to answer two different Patent Owner responses or fear waiving its rights to respond. This tactic is surely designed to harass Requester and increases its costs.

3. Patent Owner's Submissions Warrant Termination of the Present Proceeding

37 C.F.R. § 10.18(c) provides for a variety of sanctions for violations of 37 C.F.R. § 10.18(b)(2):

Violations of any of paragraphs (b)(2)(i) through (iv) of this section are, after notice and reasonable opportunity to respond, subject to such sanctions as deemed appropriate by the Commissioner, or the Commissioner's designee, which may include, but are not limited to, any combination of --

(1) Holding certain facts to have been established;

<sup>3</sup> In section II, Requester requests that, should the Patent Office not terminate the instant proceeding due to Patent Owner's violation of 37 C.F.R. § 10.18, Examiner disregard Venable LLP's submission, expunging it from the record. Thereafter, Requester would be able to respond properly and substantively to Patent Owner's single response to the Office Action of May 2, 2008.

- (2) Returning papers;
- (3) Precluding a party from filing a paper, or presenting or contesting an issue;
- (4) Imposing a monetary sanction;
- (5) Requiring a terminal disclaimer for the period of the delay; or
- (6) Terminating the proceedings in the Patent and Trademark Office.

As the foregoing discussion illustrates, Patent Owner has violated 37 C.F.R. § 10.18(b)(2)(i) and (iii). Requester believes the reasons for these violations are readily apparent: (i) to introduce unsupportable allegations to “smear” PlaSmart and its counsel in an attempt to bias the proceedings in Patent Owner’s favor; and (ii) to introduce dual submissions to harass Requester by increasing its workload substantially, thereby increasing its expenses.

Under 37 C.F.R. § 10.18(c)(6), the Patent Office may impose the sanction of “terminating the proceeding[] in the Patent and Trademark Office.” Requester respectfully suggests that this sanction would be appropriate, and requests entry of it.

II. If the Proceeding is not Terminated, the Venable LLP Submission Should be Disregarded and Expunged from the Record

As discussed in detail above, 37 C.F.R. § 1.33(c) dictates that only the attorney of record, when one exists, is permitted to correspond with the Patent Office on behalf of a patent owner. As further discussed in detail above, 37 C.F.R. § 1.939(a) states that “unauthorized papers” filed at any time during an inter partes reexamination “will not be considered” by the Patent Office.

Again, as discussed in detail above, Venable LLP is not the attorney of record for Patent Owner, Mr. Chan is, and so Venable LLP is not permitted to submit correspondence on behalf of Patent Owner. The Venable LLP submission is therefore an “unauthorized paper”, and must be refused consideration pursuant to 37 C.F.R. § 1.939(a).

To be clear, Requester believes that Patent Owner's submission of two responses – one from Mr. Chan and one from Venable LLP – was intentional and is sanctionable for the reasons detailed in section I, despite the fact that Venable LLP's submission must be disregarded pursuant to 37 C.F.R. § 1.939(a). The harm caused by the dual submission, both in the time and expense required to prepare the present papers, as well as the prejudicial nature of the unsupported allegations made in the Venable LLP submission, cannot be undone by merely “refusing consideration” of the Venable LLP submission. Requester asks for the relief of Section II solely as a precaution, to ensure that, should the proceeding not be terminated, the Patent Office directs Requester to respond to the proper one of Patent Owner's two submissions.

III. Conclusion

Patent Owner has, at best, recklessly, and at worst, intentionally, disregarded 37 C.F.R. §§ 1.4 and 10.18 by submitting unsupported allegations of fraud against requester and/or its attorney. Patent Owner's actions also violate 37 C.F.R. § 10.18(b)(2)(i), filing “double” papers which harass Requester and improperly increase Requesters expenses. The instant action should therefore be terminated in its present state pursuant to 37 C.F.R. § 10.18(c)(6).

At a minimum, Examiner should disregard the submission by Venable LLP, expunging it from the record, and instructing Requester to respond only to the submission by Mr. Chan.
